Fa bene o fa male? Dario Bressanini, 2023-05-02 Dai salumi «cancerogeni» al famigerato olio di palma, dai misteriosi «zuccheri aggiunti» al temutissimo sale, oggi il cibo sembra più un nemico da cui difendersi che uno dei grandi piaceri della vita. Questo anche a causa del marketing, che sui temi dell'alimentazione si fa sempre più aggressivo, e della proliferazione di studi e articoli allarmistici che di scientifico hanno ben poco. È paradossale che, proprio quando abbiamo a disposizione un assortimento di cibo senza precedenti, non solo mangiamo troppo e male, ma siamo sempre più confusi e ansiosi rispetto a ciò che dovremmo o non dovremmo mettere nel piatto. La domanda che ci poniamo più spesso quando valutiamo un alimento è: «Fa bene o fa male?». E pretendiamo risposte facili, un sì o un no. Peccato che sia impossibile trovare una risposta senza prima comprendere come funziona il motore della ricerca scientifica, come distinguere la scienza dalla pseudoscienza, o uno studio serio da una bufala di ultima generazione. In questo nuovo libro, perciò, Dario Bressanini ci dà una serie di strumenti per evitare di cadere nelle trappole dei media e della pubblicità. Lo fa prendendo in esame alcuni falsi miti, come la clorofilla che farebbe bene alla pelle e ai capelli, il cioccolato che «aiuta a dimagrire», ma anche a ottenere un premio Nobel, o il sale rosa dell'Himalaya che in realtà è prodotto in Pakistan. Avvalendosi di studi scientifici inoppugnabili, ci guida nella scelta di alcuni alimenti basilari, per insegnarci a distinguere le informazioni di cui abbiamo davvero bisogno da ciò che il marketing vuole darci a intendere. Con il linguaggio semplice e l'approfondimento scientifico che l'hanno sempre contraddistinto, Bressanini smonta a una a una le nostre paure alimentari, permettendoci di trovare da soli le risposte che cerchiamo e, quindi, di fare la spesa e sederci a tavola con più consapevolezza e serenità.

Early Flowers and Angiosperm Evolution Else Marie Friis, Peter R. Crane, Kaj Raunsgaard Pedersen, 2011-08-18 The recent discovery of diverse fossil flowers and floral organs in Cretaceous strata has revealed astonishing details about the structural and systematic diversity of early angiosperms. Exploring the rich fossil record that has accumulated over the last three decades, this is a unique study of the evolutionary history of flowering plants from their earliest phases in obscurity to their dominance in modern vegetation. The discussion provides comprehensive biological and geological background information, before moving on to summarise the fossil record in detail. Including previously unpublished results based on research into Early and Late Cretaceous fossil floras from Europe and North America, the authors draw on direct palaeontological evidence of the pattern of angiosperm evolution through time. Synthesising palaeobotanical data with information from living plants, this unique book explores the latest research in the field, highlighting connections with phylogenetic systematics, structure and the biology of extant angiosperms.

In Praise Of Imperfe Rita Levi-Montalcini, 1988-05-08 The autobiography of Levi-Montalcini, who won the Nobel Prize for Medicine in 1986. Born in Torino into a middle-class Jewish family, she experienced the rise of fascism and antisemitism in the 1930s-40s (discussed on pp. 73-105). After the promulgation of the racial laws in 1938, it was impossible for her to pursue research at the Neurological Clinic and she continued her work in private. She survived the war hiding in a small town in Italy and later emigrated to the United States. #c (From the Bibliography of the Vidal Sassoon International Center for the Study of Antisemitism).

Anointed for Business Ed Silvano, 2009-09-01 Every Business Is God's Business The notion that labor for profit and worship of God are now, and always have been, worlds apart, is patently false. The Early Church founders were mostly community leaders and highly successful businesspeople. The writing of the Gospels was entrusted to Luke, a medical doctor; Matthew, a retired tax collector; Mark, the manager of a family trust; and John, a food supplier. Lydia was a dealer in purple cloth. Dorcas was a clothes designer. In this expanded version of the bestselling Anointed for Business, Ed Silvano focuses on the heart of our cities, which is the marketplace. Yet the perceived wall between commercial pursuit and service to God continues to be a barrier to advancing His kingdom. Silvano shows Christians how to knock down that wall--and participate in an unparalleled marketplace transformation. Only then can we see God's kingdom invade every corner of our world. Readers will appreciate Silvosio's passionate call to men and women in the workplace to rise to their God-appointed positions. The included study guide will enable the reader to put these revolutionary concepts into action.

WHO Guidelines on Protecting Workers from Potential Risks of Manufactured Nanomaterials World Health Organization,2017 World Health Organization has developed these guidelines with recommendations on how best to protect workers from the potential risks of manufactured nanomaterials (MNMs). The recommendations are intended to help policy-makers and professionals in the field of occupational health and safety in making decisions about the best protection against potential risks specific to MNMs in workplaces. These guidelines are also intended to support workers and employers. However, they are not intended as a handbook or manual for safe handling of MNMs in the workplace because this requires addressing more general occupational hygiene issues beyond the scope of these guidelines. Biology and Wildlife of the Mediterranean Region Jacques Blondel,James Aronson,1999 The Mediterranean is an outstanding 'hot-spot' of biological diversity. It is exceptional not only for this, but also because of its long history of interactions between its human inhabitants and the other fauna and flora of the region. The cradle of many civilizations, the Mediterranean region has been host to humans for thousands of years. This book is the first to synthesise our current understanding of the ecology, biology, and geology of Mediterranean animals, birds, and plants, and their habitats. The authors focus on the unique historical determinants and spatial patterns of Mediterranean biodiversity. In particular, the dramatic impacts of long-term human activities on the region's landscapes, flora, and fauna, are considered. This fascinating story will be of interest to researchers and students in ecology, biology, conservation, and geography, as well as to naturalists, and ecotourists visiting this popular holiday region.

Uan Tabu in the Settlement History of the Libyan Sahara Elena A. A. Garcea,2001-07-01 Uan Tabu is a rockshelter on the left bank of the central valley of the Wadi Teshuinat, which is a main ancient water course in the Tadrart Acacus mountain range. It is located in the Fezzan region, south-western Libya (Great Jamahirya). The site was discovered by Fabrizio Mori in 1960 and was re-excavated and studied by a multi-disciplinary team at the beginning of the 1990s. It has also remarkable rock art that includes paintings from the Round Head and Pastoral phases. Between 1960 and 1963, a trench was dug into the archaeological deposit at the foot of the rock wall. The results of the 1960s' excavation have never been published before, apart from some brief notes. They are thoroughly described and discussed in the present volume. Between 1990 and 1993, the excavation was resumed and extended. The 1990s' excavation has been preliminarily published. Further information and details are now presented and commented. A stratigraphic and cultural correlation between the two excavations is also attempted in this volume. Four main archaeological and paedological units were identified and dated. They spanned from the Late Pleistocene to the Late Holocene. The earliest one, dating to the Pleistocene, included an Aterian techno-complex and was dated to around 61,000 years BP. Later, during the Early Holocene, a 'pre-pastoral' occupation occurred since the 10th millennium bp. This period was differentiated in two phases characterised by different socio-cultural systems: 1. during the Early Acacus (around 9800-8800 years bp), the site was used on a seasonal basis, probably during the dry season, for practising hunting activities; 2. during the Late Acacus (around 8800-8600 years bp), a more sedentary lifestyle was hypothesised for the inhabitants of the site. These two cultural facies comprised the upper three units. The fourth phase of occupation of the shelter was only attested to the surface of the site, but it could be still considered as an indication of the use of the site during the Late Holocene, as late as the 4th millennium bp. A dung fill in the wall of the rockshelter dated to the end of this, Late Pastoral, phase and is the only evidence for domesticated animals.

Modern Foraminifera Barun K. Sen Gupta, 2007-05-08 From the reviews: This is now the definitive, authoritative text on applied foraminiferal micropaleontology and should be in the library of all practicing micropaleontologists. (William A. Berggren, Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution in Micropaleontology, 47:1 (2001) During the last 20 years there has been an explosion of publications about foraminifera from an amazing variety of disciplines: basic cell biology, algal symbiosis, biomineralization, biogeography, ecology, pollution, chemical oceanography, geochemistry, paleoceanography, and geology. This book summarizes contributions by leading researchers in these diverse fields. It is not just another text on the biology of foraminifera. Rather, Barun Sen Gupta has accomplished his objective to write an advanced text for university students that would also serve as a reference book for professionals. (Howard J. Spero, University of California at Davis in Limnology and Oceanography, 45:8 (2000).
