The Origin of Roman London Lacey M. Wallace,2014 Drawing on both published and archived archaeological evidence, this copiously illustrated book revolutionises our understanding of early Roman London.

Land, Power and Prestige David Thomas Yates,2007 A major phase of economic expansion occurred in southern England during the second and early first millennium BC, accompanied by a fundamental shift in regional power and wealth towards the eastern lowlands. This book offers a synthesis of available data on Bronze Age lowland field systems in England, including a gazetteer of sites. The research demonstrates the importance of large-scale animal husbandry in the mixed farming regimes as evidenced in the design of the field systems which incorporate droveways, stock proof fencing, watering holes, cow pens, sheep races and gateways for stockhandling. It is argued that the field systems represented a form of conspicuous production, an intensification of agrarian endeavour or a statement of intent, to be understood in relation to the maintenance, display and promotion of hierarchical social systems involved in exchange with their counterparts across the English Channel.

Poplars and Willows Jud G. Isebrands,Jim Richardson,2014-02-12 Poplars and willows form an important component of forestry and agricultural systems, providing a wide range of wood and non-wood products. This book synthesizes research on poplars and willows, providing a practical worldwide overview and guide to their basic characteristics, cultivation and use, issues, problems and trends. Prominence is given to environmental benefits and the importance of poplar and willow cultivation in meeting the needs of people and communities, sustainable livelihoods, land use and development.

Old Hartwell Volkhard Wehner,2012 In Boroondara in the 1860s, two villages existed side by side: Camberwell and Hartwell, each with 150 denizens. But over time, Camberwell swallowed Hartwell, and today the latter is merely a neighbourhood. Hartwell's name lives on in buildings and groups such as the Hartwell Players -- Melbourne's oldest amateur theatre group -- and even the Hartwell Motorcycle Club, one of the state's oldest and largest. These tidbits and more can be found in this book.
